What Is ACA?

“The professors are absolutely kind, selfless, and thoughtful; I can tell that they genuinely care for the students. I really appreciate how they try to make us feel at home while studying abroad.”

—Chidinma Wilson (OU), ACA Argentina

Adventist Colleges Abroad (ACA) Consortium consists of 13 Seventh-day Adventist universities and colleges located primarily in North America. ACA provides qualified undergraduate students with opportunities to study abroad at ACA-affiliated institutions while completing program requirements of their home universities. Through ACA, students are immersed in the culture and life of another country while becoming conversant in its language. Thanks to such experiences, ACA students will gain an appreciation of, and perhaps an inspiration for, mission or other multicultural service.

Join us in offering students an opportunity to learn, grow, and expand their horizons through study abroad. Become an ACA sponsor.

Worldwide contagious diseases and political conflicts can create significant challenges for travel and study abroad. Our programs remain open in every country where it is safe to do so. We continually monitor each country's safety status and will make adjustments as needed. We are committed to prioritizing the safety of our students and staff while offering an exceptional study abroad experience that promotes cultural awareness and academic success.

Why Study Abroad?

Speaking of careers... Have you heard of power skills?

Power skills are personal attributes that enable someone to interact effectively and harmoniously with other people. These skills are hard to teach directly, and are often acquired through interaction with others and life experiences, such as traveling abroad with ACA.

Employers of humanities, health care, and STEM careers want to know that job candidates already have the power skills they need to be successful. Most power skills that employers value are byproducts of world language acquisition through an ACA program.

Power Skills That Employers Value

Adaptability Communication

Confidence CRITICAL THINKING

Empathy Interpersonal skills

Leadership PERSISTENCE

Problem solving Positive Attitude

Reliability TEAMWORK

Thinking outside of the box

Tolerance of change and uncertainty

Willingness to learn WORK ETHIC

Don't miss your chance to acquire the world language and power skills that will make you stand out in the job market. We are here to help you.

“Being in Spain and being able to learn a language while also immersing myself in the culture has been eye-opening. I realized that it is nothing like learning a language in the states. I have noticed my Spanish vocabulary growing and it is very exciting to see myself go from barely speaking to now being capable of holding a conversation. I have been given the opportunity to travel to places I didn’t imagine myself going to until I graduated college. God has blessed me in so many ways and I am beyond grateful for the experience thus far.”
